Patrizia,

Will need to get back to you on this one; we need to discuss internally.

In regards to highlighted lines below, when/how were they approved. We don't recall them in the context of asylum claimants. Also, have we used them before?

Many thanks.

Subject: For EVP approval- CBS News on-camera interview request - Tues April 25 - EMERSON - Asylum Seekers

Hello for EVP review and approval.

We have used these messages before; the spokesperson is media trained and we will add one additional comment to supplement our message – along the lines of: most persons are documented, have been in the US so have already been security screened in the US as well. (we will forward this added bullet as soon as developed).

Many thanks, any questions in the interim, please let us know.

CBSA media opportunities – On camera interview at Emerson port of entry on asylum seekers - Manitoba
April 25, 2017

OPPORTUNITY

CBS News is requesting an on-camera interview with a CBSA spokesperson at the Emerson port of entry on April 25. This will be a stand-up interview outside on port property where we will speak to our role at the port, the security screening process for refugee claimants and the process to determine eligibility of claimants to make a refugee claim in Canada. Since January, CBSA has been providing on-camera, radio and phone interviews about our role with claimants/asylum seekers entering Canada near the Emerson port of entry.

OBJECTIVES

To demonstrate the CBSA is open and transparent in providing details on its screening process for refugee claimants, as well as how the CBSA processes claimants and determines their eligibility to make a refugee claim in Canada.

To clarify the CBSA's role and jurisdiction at the port of entry.

STRATEGIC CONSIDERATIONS

As CBSA has granted several of these same types of interviews since the beginning of 2017, it could be deemed unusual to refuse this request from CBS News. An interview of the same type was provided to NBC News on February 21, 2017 at the Emerson port of entry. The interviews will be conducted by Chief Jeryn Peters, Southern Manitoba District, at the Emerson port of entry. The interview will be outside with the port of entry in the background. CBS News will not be allowed into the Emerson traffic building. There will be onsite communication with CBSA management and BSOs to protect the privacy of travellers/claimants. CBS News will not be allowed to film travellers or claimants on CBSA property. This is the same format that was followed with the NBC interview. Additionally, Chief Peters has been briefed on the most recent issues surfacing at the Emerson port of entry which include the assault of a CBSA officer as well as the CIU's statement on asylum seekers with criminality.

SPOKESPERSON

Chief Jeryn Peters, Southern Manitoba District, Emerson port of entry (uniformed spokesperson). Chief Peters is an experienced and media trained spokesperson.

ON-SITE SUPPORT:

Jacqueline Callin, Regional Communications, on-site support

DATE Tuesday April 25 at 1300 CT

SCENARIO:

Chief Jeryn Peters will speak about the CBSA's role in screening and the process for determining eligibility of claimants at the Emerson port of entry.

SPEAKING POINTSCBSA's role and mandate:

The Canada Border Services Agency (CBSA) is responsible for enforcement at designated ports of entry in Canada. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) is responsible for enforcing the law between ports of entry. Border security and integrity is a shared mandate between the CBSA and the RCMP.

On security screening of claimants:

When the RCMP intercepts a person entering Canada illegally, the person will be taken to a CBSA location. All persons brought to the CBSA by RCMP are screened and subject to a risk assessment. No one leaves the CBSA's premises until processing is complete.

- CBSA's screening involves international and domestic database queries and interviews.
- Officers confirm identity through scanning travel documents and matching fingerprints to those already on file with United States agencies.
- Officers conduct criminal record checks using law enforcement (domestic and US) databases.
- Officers determine the claimant's status in other countries, including the United States.
- Officers research any information available on the claimant's history, family connections, and ties to Canada. Officers will ask who they are, where they came from, what their status is in the U.S., if they are facing a removal order in the U.S., etc.
- Officers examine any luggage or belongings in the claimant's possession at the time of entry, and retrieve identity documents.

On determining eligibility of refugee claimants and processing claimants:

If the person makes a refugee claim, the role of the CBSA is to determine the eligibility of the claim under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act and the Canada-U.S. Safe Third Country Agreement. A claim may not be eligible for referral to the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB) for various reasons, such as:

- The claimant is not admissible to Canada on security grounds, or because of criminal activity or human rights violations.
- The claimant made a previous refugee claim that was rejected by the IRB.
- The Canada-U.S. Safe Third Country Agreement applies, which states that refugee claimants are required to request refugee protection in the first safe country they arrive in, unless they qualify for an exception to the Agreement.
- If the officer determines that the person is eligible to make a claim, the claim is deferred inland for further CBSA processing before moving onward to the IRB. If the claim is deemed ineligible, the person may be removed.
- The IRB ultimately determines whether or not the person is granted refugee status. The CBSA's role is to assess eligibility at the port of entry. The CBSA may also intervene in a claim and appear at the hearing before the IRB.
- When processing claimants, CBSA officers also contact Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada to advise of the claims for resettlement purposes.
- Winnipeg is not always the claimant's final destination in Canada. If the claimant is reuniting with family in other parts of the country, their file is forwarded to the nearest CBSA/IRB office for final determination.
- If a claimant has previous criminality, their claim is assessed on a case-by-case basis. The claimant may be detained pending the results of their claim.
- The CBSA is well-positioned and experienced in processing high volumes of travellers. We continuously monitor our operations and adjust as required.
- The Emerson border crossing has received refugee claimants for many years. Officers are experienced and familiar with the ins and outs of effectively and efficiently processing claimants.
- Daily staffing levels can be adjusted quickly to a sudden influx of refugee claimants, to ensure that regular traveller and commercial traffic flow is not disrupted.

Appendix A

Accommodations at the Emerson port of entry:

The trailer is simply an extension of our waiting area with chairs and it is heated.

- Having the trailer on site at Emerson is the best solution from an operational perspective to facilitate efficient processing of claimants.

- While claimants are in processing, the trailer is an extension of our lobby area to accommodate larger groups who are awaiting the administrative part of their processing to be completed.
- There is a security presence on site when the trailer is in use.
- Water, blankets and other supplies are being provided to claimants when needed. CBSA is also providing medical attention to those individuals who need it.

On CIU comments re asylum seekers and criminality.

- What the CBSA can tell you is that in Manitoba, from March 20 to April 16, 2017, of 135 persons processed by the CBSA at the Emerson port of entry seeking to make a refugee claim, the CBSA detained three (3) individuals it determined to be a danger to the public.
- CBSA officers are trained to assess all risks associated with people and goods attempting to enter Canada to ensure the country's safety and security.
- When a CBSA officer has reasonable grounds to believe the person is a danger to the public, they are a flight risk or their identity is in question a detention order may be issued.
- The CBSA, working with its Government of Canada and international security partners, is responding to the increase in asylum seekers in a sound and measured way, to ensure the safety and security of Canada's border.
- On any given day, the CBSA can experience a change in what and who it sees at the border. CBSA's border services officers are highly-trained and able to respond to this reality through the application of rigorous screening and standard processes to keep Canada safe.

On recent assault of a CBSA officer

- I can confirm that a CBSA officer was assaulted by a traveller resisting arrest. The officer sustained minor injury but did not require further medical attention. Our officers have the training and tools to respond to these situations. The traveller was arrested and charged by RCMP. For more information please contact the RCMP.

On Detentions - General:

- Making a refugee claim is not a reason for detention. Detention is designed to be a short-term solution and our numbers fluctuate daily. The regional CBSA office can provide overall detention statistics on a monthly basis. Contact our media relations team for further information or to request statistics.

- For your further background, detention is a last resort and officers must always consider alternatives.
- The CBSA has the authority to detain a foreign national, in accordance with the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act, for the following reasons:
 - The person is unlikely to appear for removal or for a proceeding;
 - The person is a danger to the public;
 - To confirm/establish identity.
- All detentions are reviewed after 48hrs, 7 days, and then every 30 days by the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB).
- While the CBSA will present evidence in support of detention, the IRB ultimately decides whether detention continues or if an individual should be released and whether or not terms and conditions should be applied.
- For more information on detention, please visit the CBSA website sections on Arrests, detentions and removals and Detentions.

For questions about asylum seeker numbers:

The number of asylum claims in Canada are updated monthly on Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada's (IRCC) website. The website has numbers from January to March 2017. For questions or numbers outside of these dates, please contact our regional communications team.

For questions about interceptions between ports of entry, please contact the RCMP as they are responsible for the enforcing the law between ports of entry.

Dear Officer Tame,

Our office came across this article recently and I wanted to run it by you for the authenticity of the information:

<http://www.cbc.ca/news/canada/manitoba/asylum-seekers-march-numbers-1.4075245>

Particularly these statements: "three people intercepted by RCMP while crossing into Canada on foot near Emerson, Man., were detained because they were found to be a danger to the public, Canada Border Services Agency officials say."

"One of the recent detainees allegedly assaulted a female officer on April 8."

Are they accurate? We just want to know if this information was accurately reported.

Thank you very much and I hope all is well,

In situation where an employee's identification/access credentials have been lost or stolen, please ensure to include the highest level of information the lost items could access as this will be used by the Regional Security Manager/Officer in determine the criticality of the incident as dictated by the Harmonized Threat and Risk Assessment Methodology. If the employee has a Top Secret clearance, this incident would be considered High Priority and would need to adhere to the timelines specified in the Standard for Security Incident Reporting (http://atlas/cb-dgc/pol/cm-mc/sv-vs/psd-dsm/sir_sis_eng.asp).

Intent of the Security Incident Report - The purpose of this document is to define the proper reporting of Security Incidents. Security incidents, when reported in a complete and timely manner, are an important part of the Agency's ability to contain, mitigate, address and otherwise respond to acts or conditions that may pose a range of risks to Agency personnel, assets, information, and operations and to carry out the necessary measures against these risks.

DIRECTIVES À SUIVRE POUR REMPLIR LE RAPPORT D'INCIDENT DE SÉCURITÉ

Partie A - D (inclusivement)

Doivent être remplies par la personne qui signale l'incident avec l'aide du gestionnaire local, au besoin.

Partie E

Doit être remplie par le gestionnaire local.

Parties F - G

Doivent être remplies par le bureau régional de la sécurité

Partie H

Doit être remplie par le directeur ou son représentant autorisé

RENSEIGNEMENTS SUPPLÉMENTAIRES

PARTIE A

Veuillez indiquer le lieu de l'incident et le bureau du ou des employés qui ont signalé l'incident

PARTIE B

Veuillez fournir des renseignements précis lorsque vous signalez un incident et le nom complet des employés impliqués. Si vous avez besoin de plus d'espace, veuillez utiliser une autre feuille. Reportez-vous à la Politique sur la sécurité de l'ASFC, au Manuel du contrôle - Volume de sécurité - Norme pour le signalement des incidents de sécurité (http://atlas/cb-dgc/pol/cm-mc/sv-vs/psd-dsm/sir_sis_fra.asp).

Si des témoins sont de simples citoyens, veuillez noter leur nom, leur adresse et leur numéro de téléphone, et veiller à ce qu'ils remplissent une déposition signée avant de partir.

Si on a procédé à une arrestation, veuillez indiquer la date et l'heure de l'arrestation, l'article du Code criminel qui a été violé et la nature de l'infraction.

PARTIE F

En cas de perte ou de vol des justificatifs d'identité de l'employé, assurez-vous d'inclure le niveau de renseignements le plus élevé pouvant être accédé à l'aide des articles perdus, car le responsable ou l'agent régional de la sécurité se servira de ces renseignements pour déterminer la criticité de l'incident tel que dicté par la Méthodologie harmonisée d'évaluation des menaces et des risques. Si l'employé a une cote de sécurité de niveau très secret, cet incident serait considéré hautement prioritaire et le délai énoncé dans la Norme pour le signalement des incidents de sécurité (http://atlas/cb-dgc/pol/cm-mc/sv-vs/psd-dsm/sir_sis_fra.asp) devra être respecté.

But du Rapport d'incident de sécurité - le but du présent document est de définir la façon appropriée de signaler les incidents de sécurité. Les incidents de sécurité signalés de façon complète et en temps opportun permettent à l'Agence de contrôler, d'atténuer, d'aborder et de répondre aux actes ou aux conditions pouvant présenter un risque pour les employés, les biens, les renseignements et les opérations de l'Agence et de prendre les mesures nécessaires contre ces risques.

Prior to my MD interactions with the Subject,

I believe due to space, utilizing the door to contain the Subject was best case scenario. There was not enough time to access my tools, subject charged at us and would have been on top of me in a matter of seconds. Deploying a tool could have potentially caused harm to my assisting Officer, as we had no room to move. There was no cover or concealment, so our only option was to tactically reposition and separate the Subject by utilizing the door, and containing him in the cell.

SUBJECT(S) INVOLVED:

BACKGROUND INFORMATION:

ENVIRONMENTAL FACTORS:

The incident took place at the port of Emerson, CBSA, MB. Specifically, the incident was in the traffic building of our traveller operations in Cell D137. At the time of my encounter with the PC in the area outside and inside the cells there were no adverse lighting or floor surface issues. Due to the time of the incident the traffic office was relatively quiet posing no issues with auditory factors.

Cell D137 was approximately 7x9ft with one bench in the back right corner opposite the cell door, one sink on the left hand side wall, adjacent to a toilet on the wall where the door opened to the cell.

The hallway leading to Cell D137 has many rooms on the opposite wall to where the cell is placed. On the opposing wall there are two interview rooms with two separate doors of entry, as well as an additional door leading to an office where a Superintendent is situated in the day. For the duration of our interaction the rooms on the opposing wall were not occupied. The distance between the entrance to the cell door and the wall behind us in the corridor is approximately 5-6ft wide. The cell door opens outward into the hallway to the right, obstructing the path of the hallways, with approximately 2-3ft of space available.

Pat this needs adjusted - CBC believe he was in Canada for while before rcmp got him - see mayor's comments.

To say no one gets in without being screened is misleading. Can we adjust?

Cbsa screens all individuals at the POE... no one is allowed in until process is complete

Issue: Asylum-seeker with serious criminality
Media: CBC Winnipeg

Questions: We have been told officials picked up a man from Cuba in Dominion City on Monday morning who was here illegally. Is this correct? We have been told this person would not be admissible under asylum-seeking rules in Canada because they have a criminal record. Can you please confirm this information?

Response:

It is not a practice of the CBSA to speak to any one individual person or file or entity.

We can tell you that when a person makes an asylum claim with the CBSA, our role is to determine the eligibility of the claim under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act.

All persons seeking entry to Canada, including asylum claimants, are screened and subject to a risk assessment. No one enters Canada until this processing is completed.

For information on eligibility requirements, please contact Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada.

Hi Lisa – update for you on this one: stats are being compiled...as soon as we have more, we will let you know. Pat

Reporter/Media outlet: CBC News
Issue: Follow-up - wants to know how many MB refugee claimants have criminality
Call received: Monday, May 8, 18:00 ET
Call deadline: ~~Friday, May 10, 14:00 ET~~ Extension provided

Question:

Have your people been able to go through those 135 files to find out how many of them had criminal records but were still allowed into Canada because they didn't meet the criteria of a public safety concern?

Response:

What we can tell you is that in Manitoba, from March 20 to April 30, 2017, of the 218 asylum claimants processed by the CBSA, there were 13 with minor or serious criminality.

Please refer to this link for more information on types of criminality as defined under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act:

<http://laws-lois.justice.gc.ca/eng/acts/i-2.5/section-36.html>

Background: For context only

CBC National reporter _____ has interviewed the accused in the April 7, 2017 incident at POE Emerson and published story. Reporter is following up and asking how many of the 135 intercepted from March 20 to April 16 have criminality in their backgrounds. We do not have the statistics for these exact dates, however, we can provide the reporter with similar information on criminality for the number of claimants from March 20 to April 30, 2017. Please see proposed response below for approval. This data has been provided by Programs for a similar tasking by HQ (attached).

Reporter published a story on April 13 citing information provided by the CIU: "Nearly half of the asylum seekers crossing the Manitoba border illegally in the last few weeks are being detained because of serious criminal records." CBC published another story on April 19 where CBSA provided a response indicating from March 20 to April 16, 2017, the RCMP intercepted 135 people crossing illegally into Canada and of those, the CBSA detained three (3) individuals it determined to be a danger to the public.

CBSA media opportunities – On camera interview at Emerson port of entry on asylum seekers - Manitoba
 April 25, 2017

OPPORTUNITY

CBS News is requesting an on-camera interview with a CBSA spokesperson at the Emerson port of entry on April 25. This will be a stand-up interview outside on port property where we will speak to our role at the port, the security screening process for refugee claimants and the process to determine eligibility of claimants to make a refugee claim in Canada. Since January, CBSA has been providing on-camera, radio and phone interviews about our role with claimants/asylum seekers entering Canada near the Emerson port of entry.

OBJECTIVES

To demonstrate the CBSA is open and transparent in providing details on its screening process for refugee claimants, as well as how the CBSA processes claimants and determines their eligibility to make a refugee claim in Canada.
 To clarify the CBSA's role and jurisdiction at the port of entry.

STRATEGIC CONSIDERATIONS

As CBSA has granted several of these same types of interviews since the beginning of 2017, it could be deemed unusual to refuse this request from CBS News. An interview of the same type was provided to NBC News on February 21, 2017 at the Emerson port of entry. The interviews will be conducted by Chief Jeryn Peters, Southern Manitoba District, at the Emerson port of entry. The interview will be outside with the port of entry in the background. CBS News will not be allowed into the Emerson traffic building. There will be onsite communication with CBSA management and BSOs to protect the privacy of travellers/claimants. CBS News will not be allowed to film travellers or claimants on CBSA property. This is the same format that was followed with the NBC interview. Additionally, Chief Peters has been briefed on the most recent issues surfacing at the Emerson port of entry which include the assault of a CBSA officer as well as the CIU's statement on asylum seekers with criminality.

SPOKESPERSON

Chief Jeryn Peters, Southern Manitoba District, Emerson port of entry (uniformed spokesperson). Chief Peters is an experienced and media trained spokesperson.

ON-SITE SUPPORT:

Jacqueline Callin, Regional Communications, on-site support

DATE Tuesday April 25 at 1300 CT

SCENARIO:

Chief Jeryn Peters will speak about the CBSA's role in screening and the process for determining eligibility of claimants at the Emerson port of entry.

SPEAKING POINTS

CBSA's role and mandate:

The Canada Border Services Agency (CBSA) is responsible for enforcement at designated ports of entry in Canada. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) is responsible for enforcing the law between ports of entry. Border security and integrity is a shared mandate between the CBSA and the RCMP.

On security screening of claimants:

When the RCMP intercepts a person entering Canada illegally, the person will be taken to a CBSA location. All persons brought to the CBSA by RCMP are screened and subject to a risk assessment. No one leaves the CBSA's premises until processing is complete.

- CBSA's screening involves international and domestic database queries and interviews.
- Officers confirm identity through scanning travel documents and matching fingerprints to those already on file with United States agencies.
- Officers conduct criminal record checks using law enforcement (domestic and US) databases.
- Officers determine the claimant's status in other countries, including the United States.

- Officers research any information available on the claimant's history, family connections, and ties to Canada. Officers will ask who they are, where they came from, what their status is in the U.S., if they are facing a removal order in the U.S., etc.
- Officers examine any luggage or belongings in the claimant's possession at the time of entry, and retrieve identity documents.

On determining eligibility of refugee claimants and processing claimants:

If the person makes a refugee claim, the role of the CBSA is to determine the eligibility of the claim under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act and the Canada-U.S. Safe Third Country Agreement. A claim may not be eligible for referral to the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB) for various reasons, such as:

- The claimant is not admissible to Canada on security grounds, or because of criminal activity or human rights violations.
- The claimant made a previous refugee claim that was rejected by the IRB.
- The Canada-U.S. Safe Third Country Agreement applies, which states that refugee claimants are required to request refugee protection in the first safe country they arrive in, unless they qualify for an exception to the Agreement.
- If the officer determines that the person is eligible to make a claim, the claim is deferred inland for further CBSA processing before moving onward to the IRB. If the claim is deemed ineligible, the person may be removed.
- The IRB ultimately determines whether or not the person is granted refugee status. The CBSA's role is to assess eligibility at the port of entry. The CBSA may also intervene in a claim and appear at the hearing before the IRB.
- When processing claimants, CBSA officers also contact Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada to advise of the claims for resettlement purposes.
- Winnipeg is not always the claimant's final destination in Canada. If the claimant is reuniting with family in other parts of the country, their file is forwarded to the nearest CBSA/IRB office for final determination.
- If a claimant has previous criminality, their claim is assessed on a case-by-case basis. The claimant may be detained pending the results of their claim.
- The CBSA is well-positioned and experienced in processing high volumes of travellers. We continuously monitor our operations and adjust as required.
- The Emerson border crossing has received refugee claimants for many years. Officers are experienced and familiar with the ins and outs of effectively and efficiently processing claimants.
- Daily staffing levels can be adjusted quickly to a sudden influx of refugee claimants, to ensure that regular traveller and commercial traffic flow is not disrupted.

Appendix A

Accommodations at the Emerson port of entry:

The trailer is simply an extension of our waiting area with chairs and it is heated.

- Having the trailer on site at Emerson is the best solution from an operational perspective to facilitate efficient processing of claimants.
- While claimants are in processing, the trailer is an extension of our lobby area to accommodate larger groups who are awaiting the administrative part of their processing to be completed.
- There is a security presence on site when the trailer is in use.
- Water, blankets and other supplies are being provided to claimants when needed. CBSA is also providing medical attention to those individuals who need it.

On CIU comments re asylum seekers and criminality.

- The numbers provided by the Customs and Immigration Union (CIU) late last week are inaccurate. What the CBSA can tell you is that in Manitoba, from March 20 to April 16, 2017, the RCMP intercepted 135 people crossing illegally into Canada. Of those, the CBSA detained three (3) individuals it determined to be a danger to the public.
- CBSA officers are trained to assess all risks associated with people and goods attempting to enter Canada to ensure the country's safety and security.
- When a CBSA officer has reasonable grounds to believe the person is a danger to the public, they are a flight risk or their identity is in question a detention order may be issued.
- The CBSA, working with its Government of Canada and international security partners, is responding to the increase in asylum seekers in a sound and measured way, to ensure the safety and security of Canada's border.
- On any given day, the CBSA can experience a change in what and who it sees at the border. CBSA's border services officers are highly-trained and able to respond to this reality through the application of rigorous screening and standard processes to keep Canada safe.

On recent assault of a CBSA officer

- I can confirm that a CBSA officer was assaulted by a traveller resisting arrest. The officer sustained minor injury but did not require further medical attention. Our officers have the training and tools to respond to these situations. The traveller was arrested and charged by RCMP. For more information please contact the RCMP.

On Detentions - General:

- Making a refugee claim is not a reason for detention. Detention is designed to be a short-term solution and our numbers fluctuate daily. The regional CBSA office can provide overall detention statistics on a monthly basis. Contact our media relations team for further information or to request statistics.

- For your further background, detention is a last resort and officers must always consider alternatives.
- The CBSA has the authority to detain a foreign national, in accordance with the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act, for the following reasons:
 - The person is unlikely to appear for removal or for a proceeding;
 - The person is a danger to the public;
 - To confirm/establish identity.
- All detentions are reviewed after 48hrs, 7 days, and then every 30 days by the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB).
- While the CBSA will present evidence in support of detention, the IRB ultimately decides whether detention continues or if an individual should be released and whether or not terms and conditions should be applied.
- For more information on detention, please visit the CBSA website sections on Arrests, detentions and removals and Detentions.

For questions about asylum seeker numbers:

The number of asylum claims in Canada are updated monthly on Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada's (IRCC) website. The website has numbers from January to March 2017. For questions or numbers outside of these dates, please contact our regional communications team.

For questions about interceptions between ports of entry, please contact the RCMP as they are responsible for the enforcing the law between ports of entry.

CBSA media opportunities – On camera interview at Emerson port of entry on asylum seekers - Manitoba
 April 25, 2017

OPPORTUNITY

CBS News is requesting an on-camera interview with a CBSA spokesperson at the Emerson port of entry on April 25. This will be a stand-up interview outside on port property where we will speak to our role at the port, the security screening process for refugee claimants and the process to determine eligibility of claimants to make a refugee claim in Canada. Since January, CBSA has been providing on-camera, radio and phone interviews about our role with claimants/asylum seekers entering Canada near the Emerson port of entry.

OBJECTIVES

To demonstrate the CBSA is open and transparent in providing details on its screening process for refugee claimants, as well as how the CBSA processes claimants and determines their eligibility to make a refugee claim in Canada.

To clarify the CBSA's role and jurisdiction at the port of entry.

STRATEGIC CONSIDERATIONS

As CBSA has granted several of these same types of interviews since the beginning of 2017, it could be deemed unusual to refuse this request from CBS News. An interview of the same type was provided to NBC News on February 21, 2017 at the Emerson port of entry. The interviews will be conducted by Chief Jeryn Peters, Southern Manitoba District, at the Emerson port of entry. The interview will be outside with the port of entry in the background. CBS News will not be allowed into the Emerson traffic building. There will be onsite communication with CBSA management and BSOs to protect the privacy of travellers/claimants. CBS News will not be allowed to film travellers or claimants on CBSA property. This is the same format that was followed with the NBC interview. Additionally, Chief Peters has been briefed on the most recent issues surfacing at the Emerson port of entry which include the assault of a CBSA officer as well as the CIU's statement on asylum seekers with criminality.

SPOKESPERSON

Chief Jeryn Peters, Southern Manitoba District, Emerson port of entry (uniformed spokesperson). Chief Peters is an experienced and media trained spokesperson.

Tks Pat. We need at least 90 minutes for travel time, and time to prep our spokes. We also have 6 claimants at the POE right now which we also need time to talk to the operation about logistics and timing/delaying them and the NGOs arrival. Jacque must be on the road at 10:30am CT.

So, given this I think we should cancel - unless you can get this back very quickly.

With the exception of what is outlined red, the Prairie region confirms they have always used these MLS since they started addressing the influx of media calls on asylum claims.

Also, please see attached. The EVP has approved these lines back in March 2017. Please let me know if I can be of assistance.

Hello for EVP review and approval.

We have used these messages before; the spokesperson is media trained and we will add one additional comment to supplement our message – along the lines of: most persons are documented, have been in the US so have already been security screened in the US as well. (we will forward this added bullet as soon as developed).

Many thanks, any questions in the interim, please let us know.

CBSA media opportunities – On camera interview at Emerson port of entry on asylum seekers - Manitoba
April 25, 2017

OPPORTUNITY

CBS News is requesting an on-camera interview with a CBSA spokesperson at the Emerson port of entry on April 25. This will be a stand-up interview outside on port property where we will speak to our role at the port, the security screening process for refugee claimants and the process to determine eligibility of claimants to make a refugee claim in Canada. Since January, CBSA has been providing on-camera, radio and phone interviews about our role with claimants/asylum seekers entering Canada near the Emerson port of entry.

OBJECTIVES

To demonstrate the CBSA is open and transparent in providing details on its screening process for refugee claimants, as well as how the CBSA processes claimants and determines their eligibility to make a refugee claim in Canada.

To clarify the CBSA's role and jurisdiction at the port of entry.

STRATEGIC CONSIDERATIONS

As CBSA has granted several of these same types of interviews since the beginning of 2017, it could be deemed unusual to refuse this request from CBS News. An interview of the same type was provided to NBC News on February 21, 2017 at the Emerson port of entry. The interviews will be conducted by Chief Jeryn Peters, Southern Manitoba District, at the Emerson port of entry. The interview will be outside with the port of entry in the background. CBS News will not be allowed into the Emerson traffic building. There will be onsite communication with CBSA management and BSOs to protect the privacy of travellers/claimants. CBS News will not be allowed to film travellers or claimants on CBSA property. This is the same format that was followed with the NBC interview. Additionally, Chief Peters has been briefed on the most recent issues surfacing at the Emerson port of entry which include the assault of a CBSA officer as well as the CIU's statement on asylum seekers with criminality.

SPOKESPERSON

Chief Jeryn Peters, Southern Manitoba District, Emerson port of entry (uniformed spokesperson). Chief Peters is an experienced and media trained spokesperson.

ON-SITE SUPPORT:

Jacqueline Callin, Regional Communications, on-site support

DATE Tuesday April 25 at 1300 CT

SCENARIO:

Chief Jeryn Peters will speak about the CBSA's role in screening and the process for determining eligibility of claimants at the Emerson port of entry.

SPEAKING POINTS

CBSA's role and mandate:

The Canada Border Services Agency (CBSA) is responsible for enforcement at designated ports of entry in Canada. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) is responsible for enforcing the law between ports of entry. Border security and integrity is a shared mandate between the CBSA and the RCMP.

On security screening of claimants:

When the RCMP intercepts a person entering Canada illegally, the person will be taken to a CBSA location. All persons brought to the CBSA by RCMP are screened and subject to a risk assessment. No one leaves the CBSA's premises until processing is complete.

- CBSA's screening involves international and domestic database queries and interviews.
- Officers confirm identity through scanning travel documents and matching fingerprints to those already on file with United States agencies.
- Officers conduct criminal record checks using law enforcement (domestic and US) databases.
- Officers determine the claimant's status in other countries, including the United States.
- Officers research any information available on the claimant's history, family connections, and ties to Canada. Officers will ask who they are, where they came from, what their status is in the U.S., if they are facing a removal order in the U.S., etc.
- Officers examine any luggage or belongings in the claimant's possession at the time of entry, and retrieve identity documents.

On determining eligibility of refugee claimants and processing claimants:

If the person makes a refugee claim, the role of the CBSA is to determine the eligibility of the claim under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act and the Canada-U.S. Safe Third Country Agreement. A claim may not be eligible for referral to the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB) for various reasons, such as:

- The claimant is not admissible to Canada on security grounds, or because of criminal activity or human rights violations.
- The claimant made a previous refugee claim that was rejected by the IRB.
- The Canada-U.S. Safe Third Country Agreement applies, which states that refugee claimants are required to request refugee protection in the first safe country they arrive in, unless they qualify for an exception to the Agreement.
- If the officer determines that the person is eligible to make a claim, the claim is deferred inland for further CBSA processing before moving onward to the IRB. If the claim is deemed ineligible, the person may be removed.
- The IRB ultimately determines whether or not the person is granted refugee status. The CBSA's role is to assess eligibility at the port of entry. The CBSA may also intervene in a claim and appear at the hearing before the IRB.
- When processing claimants, CBSA officers also contact Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada to advise of the claims for resettlement purposes.
- Winnipeg is not always the claimant's final destination in Canada. If the claimant is reuniting with family in other parts of the country, their file is forwarded to the nearest CBSA/IRB office for final determination.
- If a claimant has previous criminality, their claim is assessed on a case-by-case basis. The claimant may be detained pending the results of their claim.
- The CBSA is well-positioned and experienced in processing high volumes of travellers. We continuously monitor our operations and adjust as required.
- The Emerson border crossing has received refugee claimants for many years. Officers are experienced and familiar with the ins and outs of effectively and efficiently processing claimants.
- Daily staffing levels can be adjusted quickly to a sudden influx of refugee claimants, to ensure that regular traveller and commercial traffic flow is not disrupted.

Appendix A

Accommodations at the Emerson port of entry:

The trailer is simply an extension of our waiting area with chairs and it is heated.

- Having the trailer on site at Emerson is the best solution from an operational perspective to facilitate efficient processing of claimants.

- While claimants are in processing, the trailer is an extension of our lobby area to accommodate larger groups who are awaiting the administrative part of their processing to be completed.
- There is a security presence on site when the trailer is in use.
- Water, blankets and other supplies are being provided to claimants when needed. CBSA is also providing medical attention to those individuals who need it.

On CIU comments re asylum seekers and criminality.

- What the CBSA can tell you is that in Manitoba, from March 20 to April 16, 2017, of 135 persons processed by the CBSA at the Emerson port of entry seeking to make a refugee claim, the CBSA detained three (3) individuals it determined to be a danger to the public.
- CBSA officers are trained to assess all risks associated with people and goods attempting to enter Canada to ensure the country's safety and security.
- When a CBSA officer has reasonable grounds to believe the person is a danger to the public, they are a flight risk or their identity is in question a detention order may be issued.
- The CBSA, working with its Government of Canada and international security partners, is responding to the increase in asylum seekers in a sound and measured way, to ensure the safety and security of Canada's border.
- On any given day, the CBSA can experience a change in what and who it sees at the border. CBSA's border services officers are highly-trained and able to respond to this reality through the application of rigorous screening and standard processes to keep Canada safe.

On recent assault of a CBSA officer

- I can confirm that a CBSA officer was assaulted by a traveller resisting arrest. The officer sustained minor injury but did not require further medical attention. Our officers have the training and tools to respond to these situations. The traveller was arrested and charged by RCMP. For more information please contact the RCMP.

On Detentions - General:

- Making a refugee claim is not a reason for detention. Detention is designed to be a short-term solution and our numbers fluctuate daily. The regional CBSA office can provide overall detention statistics on a monthly basis. Contact our media relations team for further information or to request statistics.

- For your further background, detention is a last resort and officers must always consider alternatives.
- The CBSA has the authority to detain a foreign national, in accordance with the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act, for the following reasons:
 - The person is unlikely to appear for removal or for a proceeding;
 - The person is a danger to the public;
 - To confirm/establish identity.
- All detentions are reviewed after 48hrs, 7 days, and then every 30 days by the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB).
- While the CBSA will present evidence in support of detention, the IRB ultimately decides whether detention continues or if an individual should be released and whether or not terms and conditions should be applied.
- For more information on detention, please visit the CBSA website sections on Arrests, detentions and removals and Detentions.

For questions about asylum seeker numbers:

The number of asylum claims in Canada are updated monthly on Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada's (IRCC) website. The website has numbers from January to March 2017. For questions or numbers outside of these dates, please contact our regional communications team.

For questions about interceptions between ports of entry, please contact the RCMP as they are responsible for the enforcing the law between ports of entry.

Patrizia,

In regards to this request, we would like Comms to reach out to IRCC, PCO and MinO to confirm that they are comfortable with this approach (on-camera vs. providing written response) as well as with the lines outlined below. Please loop back with us once that's done.

Many thanks.

Subject: For EVP approval- CBS News on-camera interview request - Tues April 25 - EMERSON - Asylum Seekers

Hello for EVP review and approval.

We have used these messages before; the spokesperson is media trained and we will add one additional comment to supplement our message – along the lines of: most persons are documented, have been in the US so have already been security screened in the US as well. (we will forward this added bullet as soon as developed).

Many thanks, any questions in the interim, please let us know.

CBSA media opportunities – On camera interview at Emerson port of entry on asylum seekers - Manitoba
April 25, 2017

OPPORTUNITY

CBS News is requesting an on-camera interview with a CBSA spokesperson at the Emerson port of entry on April 25. This will be a stand-up interview outside on port property where we will speak to our role at the port, the security screening process for refugee claimants and the process to determine eligibility of claimants to make a refugee claim in Canada. Since January, CBSA has been providing on-camera, radio and phone interviews about our role with claimants/asylum seekers entering Canada near the Emerson port of entry.

OBJECTIVES

To demonstrate the CBSA is open and transparent in providing details on its screening process for refugee claimants, as well as how the CBSA processes claimants and determines their eligibility to make a refugee claim in Canada.

To clarify the CBSA's role and jurisdiction at the port of entry.

STRATEGIC CONSIDERATIONS

As CBSA has granted several of these same types of interviews since the beginning of 2017, it could be deemed unusual to refuse this request from CBS News. An interview of the same type was provided to NBC News on February 21, 2017 at the Emerson port of entry. The interviews will be conducted by Chief Jeryn Peters, Southern Manitoba District, at the Emerson port of entry. The interview will be outside with the port of entry in the background. CBS News will not be allowed into the Emerson traffic building. There will be onsite communication with CBSA management and BSOs to protect the privacy of travellers/claimants. CBS News will not be allowed to film travellers or claimants on CBSA property. This is the same format that was followed with the NBC interview. Additionally, Chief Peters has been briefed on the most recent issues surfacing at the Emerson port of entry which include the assault of a CBSA officer as well as the CIU's statement on asylum seekers with criminality.

SPOKESPERSON

Chief Jeryn Peters, Southern Manitoba District, Emerson port of entry (uniformed spokesperson). Chief Peters is an experienced and media trained spokesperson.

ON-SITE SUPPORT:

Jacqueline Callin, Regional Communications, on-site support

DATE Tuesday April 25 at 1300 CT

SCENARIO:

Chief Jeryn Peters will speak about the CBSA's role in screening and the process for determining eligibility of claimants at the Emerson port of entry.

SPEAKING POINTS

CBSA's role and mandate:

The Canada Border Services Agency (CBSA) is responsible for enforcement at designated ports of entry in Canada. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) is responsible for enforcing the law between ports of entry. Border security and integrity is a shared mandate between the CBSA and the RCMP.

On security screening of claimants:

When the RCMP intercepts a person entering Canada illegally, the person will be taken to a CBSA location. All persons brought to the CBSA by RCMP are screened and subject to a risk assessment. No one leaves the CBSA's premises until processing is complete.

- CBSA's screening involves international and domestic database queries and interviews.

- Officers confirm identity through scanning travel documents and matching fingerprints to those already on file with United States agencies.
- Officers conduct criminal record checks using law enforcement (domestic and US) databases.
- Officers determine the claimant's status in other countries, including the United States.
- Officers research any information available on the claimant's history, family connections, and ties to Canada. Officers will ask who they are, where they came from, what their status is in the U.S., if they are facing a removal order in the U.S., etc.
- Officers examine any luggage or belongings in the claimant's possession at the time of entry, and retrieve identity documents.

On determining eligibility of refugee claimants and processing claimants:

If the person makes a refugee claim, the role of the CBSA is to determine the eligibility of the claim under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act and the Canada-U.S. Safe Third Country Agreement. A claim may not be eligible for referral to the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB) for various reasons, such as:

- The claimant is not admissible to Canada on security grounds, or because of criminal activity or human rights violations.
- The claimant made a previous refugee claim that was rejected by the IRB.
- The Canada-U.S. Safe Third Country Agreement applies, which states that refugee claimants are required to request refugee protection in the first safe country they arrive in, unless they qualify for an exception to the Agreement.
- If the officer determines that the person is eligible to make a claim, the claim is deferred inland for further CBSA processing before moving onward to the IRB. If the claim is deemed ineligible, the person may be removed.
- The IRB ultimately determines whether or not the person is granted refugee status. The CBSA's role is to assess eligibility at the port of entry. The CBSA may also intervene in a claim and appear at the hearing before the IRB.
- When processing claimants, CBSA officers also contact Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada to advise of the claims for resettlement purposes.

- Winnipeg is not always the claimant's final destination in Canada. If the claimant is reuniting with family in other parts of the country, their file is forwarded to the nearest CBSA/IRB office for final determination.
- If a claimant has previous criminality, their claim is assessed on a case-by-case basis. The claimant may be detained pending the results of their claim.
- The CBSA is well-positioned and experienced in processing high volumes of travellers. We continuously monitor our operations and adjust as required.
- The Emerson border crossing has received refugee claimants for many years. Officers are experienced and familiar with the ins and outs of effectively and efficiently processing claimants.
- Daily staffing levels can be adjusted quickly to a sudden influx of refugee claimants, to ensure that regular traveller and commercial traffic flow is not disrupted.

Appendix A

Accommodations at the Emerson port of entry:

The trailer is simply an extension of our waiting area with chairs and it is heated.

- Having the trailer on site at Emerson is the best solution from an operational perspective to facilitate efficient processing of claimants.
- While claimants are in processing, the trailer is an extension of our lobby area to accommodate larger groups who are awaiting the administrative part of their processing to be completed.
- There is a security presence on site when the trailer is in use.
- Water, blankets and other supplies are being provided to claimants when needed. CBSA is also providing medical attention to those individuals who need it.

On CIU comments re asylum seekers and criminality.

- What the CBSA can tell you is that in Manitoba, from March 20 to April 16, 2017, of 135 persons processed by the CBSA at the Emerson port of entry seeking to make a refugee claim, the CBSA detained three (3) individuals it determined to be a danger to the public.

- CBSA officers are trained to assess all risks associated with people and goods attempting to enter Canada to ensure the country's safety and security.
- When a CBSA officer has reasonable grounds to believe the person is a danger to the public, they are a flight risk or their identity is in question a detention order may be issued.
- The CBSA, working with its Government of Canada and international security partners, is responding to the increase in asylum seekers in a sound and measured way, to ensure the safety and security of Canada's border.
- On any given day, the CBSA can experience a change in what and who it sees at the border. CBSA's border services officers are highly-trained and able to respond to this reality through the application of rigorous screening and standard processes to keep Canada safe.

On recent assault of a CBSA officer

- I can confirm that a CBSA officer was assaulted by a traveller resisting arrest. The officer sustained minor injury but did not require further medical attention. Our officers have the training and tools to respond to these situations. The traveller was arrested and charged by RCMP. For more information please contact the RCMP.

On Detentions - General:

- Making a refugee claim is not a reason for detention. Detention is designed to be a short-term solution and our numbers fluctuate daily. The regional CBSA office can provide overall detention statistics on a monthly basis. Contact our media relations team for further information or to request statistics.
- For your further background, detention is a last resort and officers must always consider alternatives.
- The CBSA has the authority to detain a foreign national, in accordance with the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act, for the following reasons:
 - The person is unlikely to appear for removal or for a proceeding;
 - The person is a danger to the public;

- To confirm/establish identity.
- All detentions are reviewed after 48hrs, 7 days, and then every 30 days by the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB).
- While the CBSA will present evidence in support of detention, the IRB ultimately decides whether detention continues or if an individual should be released and whether or not terms and conditions should be applied.
- For more information on detention, please visit the CBSA website sections on Arrests, detentions and removals and Detentions.

For questions about asylum seeker numbers:

The number of asylum claims in Canada are updated monthly on Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada's (IRCC) website. The website has numbers from January to March 2017. For questions or numbers outside of these dates, please contact our regional communications team.

For questions about interceptions between ports of entry, please contact the RCMP as they are responsible for the enforcing the law between ports of entry.

Good afternoon EVP Namiesniowski,

For your approval by tomorrow (Thurs May 11) noon pls, below is an interview request from a German weekly newspaper regarding the asylum seeker situation at Emerson POE.

VP Ops, A/DG Comms and Prairie RDG have all approved. The lines below are based on what was previously approved for the interview with CBS News on April 25, 2017.

Grateful if you could advise by noon tomorrow whether we may proceed.

Thanks very much and have a good evening,
 Sarah

MEDIA INTERVIEW REQUEST

Reporter:

Outlet: DIE ZEIT, German national weekly newspaper ("Die Zeit" translates into "The Times")

Location: Emerson POE

Interview Time: Friday May 12, at 16:00 EST (15:00 CST)

Request: general overview of claimants/asylum seekers at the Emerson POE

CBSA spokesperson: Chief Ben Tame, Southern Manitoba District, Emerson port of entry (uniformed spokesperson). Chief Tame is a media-trained spokesperson. Chief Tame is the key operational contact for this file and his area of responsibility is Emerson traffic operations.

On-site support: Jacqueline Callin, Prairie Regional Communications

Seeking CBSA P.O. approval for this interview by Thursday, May 11 at 12:00 EST.

BACKGROUND:

The weekly national German newspaper DIE ZEIT is requesting an interview with a CBSA spokesperson at the Emerson port of entry on Friday, May 12. This will be a sit-down interview in an office in Emerson's commercial building. We will speak to our role at the port of entry, our security screening process for claimants and our process to determine eligibility of claimants to make a refugee claim in Canada. Since January, CBSA has been providing interviews for all media formats/audiences (on-camera, radio and print/online) about our role with claimants/asylum seekers entering Canada near the Emerson port of entry.

DIE ZEIT (English version) translates to "The Time(s)." DIE ZEIT is an intellectual weekly news publication, print and online. The reporter (Jochen Bittner) was referred to CBSA Prairie region by the Canadian Embassy in Berlin. The reporter says he will also be interviewing the Manitoba Interfaith Immigration Council, the non-profit organization who assists refugees and immigrants in Manitoba, and possibly some claimants (likely through MB Interfaith). He has also contacted the RCMP for an interview.

OBJECTIVES

To demonstrate the CBSA is open and transparent in providing details on its screening and processing of claimants, and determining their eligibility to make a refugee claim in Canada.

To clarify the CBSA's role and jurisdiction at the port of entry.

To underscore that security will not be compromised/all persons seeking entry are thoroughly screened.

STRATEGIC CONSIDERATIONS

The interview will be conducted by Chief Ben Tame (media trained), Southern Manitoba District, at the Emerson port of entry. As this request is for print/online only and no video will be taken, we will provide a sit-down interview with the reporter in a sanitized office on the commercial side at Emerson. If the reporter desires, we will allow wide angle photos to be taken of the Emerson port of entry from the commercial parking lot. The reporter will also be allowed to take a photo of Chief Tame for his story. To protect the privacy of any claimants who may be on the traffic side of the operation, DIE ZEIT will not be allowed into the Emerson traffic building or on the traffic side of port property.

To ensure no security breaches and minimal impact to operations, a Regional Communications officer will meet and greet the reporter, and remain with the reporter at all times while they are on CBSA property. There is a side door where the reporter will be brought into the building that leads straight to an elevator up to a boardroom where the interview will take place. The boardroom is sparse already, and any information that may be of concern will be removed from the boardroom prior to the reporter's arrival.

Prior to and while DIE ZEIT is at Emerson, there will be onsite communication and coordination with CBSA management and BSOs to protect the privacy of travellers/claimants. DIE ZEIT will not be allowed to communicate with or photograph travellers or claimants on CBSA property. This is the same format that has been followed for all interview requests at Emerson.

Chief Tame is fully aware and briefed on more recent issues surfacing at the Emerson port of entry which include the assault of a CBSA officer as well as the CIU's statement on asylum seekers with criminality made in March 2017.

SCENARIO

In a sit-down interview, Chief Ben Tame will speak to the CBSA's role in the security screening of refugee claimants and the process for determining eligibility of claimants to make a refugee claim in Canada at the Emerson port of entry.

SPEAKING POINTS

CBSA's role and mandate:

The Canada Border Services Agency (CBSA) is responsible for enforcement at designated ports of entry in Canada. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) is responsible for enforcing the law between ports of entry. Border security and integrity is a shared mandate between the CBSA and the RCMP.

On security screening of claimants:

When the RCMP intercepts a person entering Canada illegally, the person will be taken to a CBSA location. All persons brought to the CBSA by RCMP are screened and subject to a risk assessment. No one leaves the CBSA's premises until processing is complete.

- CBSA's screening involves domestic database queries and interviews.
- Officers confirm identity through scanning travel documents and matching fingerprints to those already on file with United States agencies.
- Officers conduct criminal record checks using law enforcement (domestic and US) databases.
- Officers determine the claimant's status in other countries, including the United States.

- Officers research any information available on the claimant's history, family connections, and ties to Canada. Officers will ask who they are, where they came from, what their status is in the U.S., if they are facing a removal order in the U.S., etc.
- Officers examine any luggage or belongings in the claimant's possession at the time of entry, and retrieve identity documents.
- Most claimants are arriving at the port of entry with supporting documentation as they have been in the United States (U.S.) for some time and have already been security screened in the U.S. The CBSA has its own security screening process to ensure that security remains uncompromised.

On determining eligibility of refugee claimants and processing claimants

If the person makes a refugee claim, the role of the CBSA is to determine the eligibility of the claim under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act (IRPA) and the Canada-U.S. Safe Third Country Agreement.

- If the officer determines that the person is eligible to make a claim, the claim is deferred inland for further CBSA processing before moving onward to the Immigration and Refugee Board (IRB), an independent quasi-judicial tribunal. If the claim is deemed ineligible, the person may be removed.
- The IRB ultimately determines whether or not the person is granted refugee status. The CBSA's role is to assess eligibility at the port of entry. The CBSA may also intervene in a claim and appear at the hearing before the IRB.

A claim may not be eligible for referral to the IRB, for various reasons, such as:

- The claimant is not admissible to Canada on security grounds, or because of criminal activity or human rights violations.
- The claimant made a previous refugee claim that was rejected by the IRB.
- The Canada-U.S. Safe Third Country Agreement applies, which states that refugee claimants are required to request refugee protection in the first safe country they arrive in, unless they qualify for an exception to the Agreement. (For additional questions about the Safe Third Country Agreement, please contact Immigration, Refugee and Citizenship Canada as they are the lead department on this agreement.)
- When processing claimants, CBSA officers also contact Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada to advise of the claims for resettlement purposes.

- Winnipeg is not always the claimant's final destination in Canada. If the claimant is reuniting with family in other parts of the country, their file is forwarded to the nearest CBSA/IRB office for final determination.
- If a claimant has previous criminality, their claim is assessed on a case-by-case basis. The claimant may be detained pending the results of their claim.
- The CBSA is well-positioned and experienced in processing high volumes of travellers. We continuously monitor our operations and adjust as required.
- The Emerson border crossing has received refugee claimants for many years. Officers are experienced and familiar with the ins and outs of effectively and efficiently processing claimants.
- Daily staffing levels can be adjusted quickly to a sudden influx of refugee claimants, to ensure that regular traveller and commercial traffic flow is not disrupted.

Speaking points on other topics that may arise (as needed):

Accommodations at the Emerson port of entry:

The trailer is simply an extension of our waiting area with chairs and it is heated.

- Having the trailer on site at Emerson is the best solution from an operational perspective to facilitate efficient processing of claimants.
- While claimants are in processing, the trailer is an extension of our lobby area to accommodate larger groups who are awaiting the administrative part of their processing to be completed.
- There is a security presence on site when the trailer is in use.

- Water, blankets and other supplies are provided to claimants when needed. CBSA is also providing medical attention to those individuals who need it.

On CIU comments re asylum seekers and criminality:

- The numbers provided by the head of the Customs and Immigration Union (CIU) are simply inaccurate. In Manitoba, from March 20 to April 16, 2017, of 135 persons processed by the CBSA at the Emerson port of entry seeking to make a refugee claim, the CBSA detained three (3) individuals it determined to be a danger to the public.
- CBSA officers are trained to assess all risks associated with people and goods attempting to enter Canada to ensure the country's safety and security.
- When a CBSA officer has reasonable grounds to believe the person is a danger to the public, they are a flight risk, or their identity is in question, a detention order may be issued.
- The CBSA, working with the RCMP and international security partners, is responding to the increase in asylum seekers in a sound and measured way, to ensure the safety and security of Canada's border.
- On any given day, the CBSA can experience a change in what and who it sees at the border. CBSA's border services officers are highly-trained and able to respond to this reality through the application of rigorous screening and standard processes to keep Canada safe.

Regarding asylum seeker statistics:

- The number of asylum claims in Canada are updated monthly on Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada's (IRCC) website: <http://www.cic.gc.ca/english/refugees/asylum-claims-made-in-canada.asp>
- The website currently has numbers from January to March 2017. Numbers for April will be updated this month. For questions or numbers outside of these dates, please contact our regional communications team.
- For questions about interceptions between ports of entry, please contact the RCMP as they are responsible for the enforcing the law between ports of entry.

On the assault of a CBSA officer in April 2017:

- I can confirm that a CBSA officer was assaulted by a traveller resisting arrest. The officer sustained minor injury but did not require further medical attention. Our officers have the training and tools to respond to these situations. The traveller was arrested and charged by RCMP. For more information please contact the RCMP.

On Detentions - General:

- Making a refugee claim is not in and of itself a reason for detention. Detention is a last resort and officers must always consider alternatives.
- The CBSA has the authority to detain a foreign national, in accordance with the IRPA, for the following reasons:
 - o The person is unlikely to appear for removal or for a proceeding;
 - o The person is a danger to the public;
 - o To confirm/establish identity.
- All detentions are reviewed after 48hrs, 7 days, and then every 30 days by the Immigration and Refugee Board (IRB).
- For more information on detention, please visit the CBSA website section on Arrests, detentions and removals and Detentions. National detention statistics are also available online.

Hello for EVP review and approval.

We have used these messages before; the spokesperson is media trained and we will add one additional comment to supplement our message – along the lines of: most persons are documented, have been in the US so have already been security screened in the US as well. (we will forward this added bullet as soon as developed).

Many thanks, any questions in the interim, please let us know.

CBSA media opportunities – On camera interview at Emerson port of entry on asylum seekers - Manitoba

April 25, 2017

OPPORTUNITY

CBS News is requesting an on-camera interview with a CBSA spokesperson at the Emerson port of entry on April 25. This will be a stand-up interview outside on port property where we will speak to our role at the port, the security screening process for refugee claimants and the process to determine eligibility of claimants to make a refugee claim in Canada. Since January, CBSA has been providing on-camera, radio and phone interviews about our role with claimants/asylum seekers entering Canada near the Emerson port of entry.

OBJECTIVES

To demonstrate the CBSA is open and transparent in providing details on its screening process for refugee claimants, as well as how the CBSA processes claimants and determines their eligibility to make a refugee claim in Canada.

To clarify the CBSA's role and jurisdiction at the port of entry.

STRATEGIC CONSIDERATIONS

As CBSA has granted several of these same types of interviews since the beginning of 2017, it could be deemed unusual to refuse this request from CBS News. An interview of the same type was provided to NBC News on February 21, 2017 at the Emerson port of entry. The interviews will be conducted by Chief Jeryn Peters, Southern Manitoba District, at the Emerson port of entry. The interview will be outside with the port of entry in the background. CBS News will not be allowed into the Emerson traffic building. There will be onsite communication with CBSA management and BSOs to protect the privacy of travellers/claimants. CBS News will not be allowed to film travellers or claimants on CBSA property. This is the same format that was followed with the NBC interview. Additionally, Chief Peters has been briefed on the most recent issues surfacing at the Emerson port of entry which include the assault of a CBSA officer as well as the CIU's statement on asylum seekers with criminality.

SPOKESPERSON

Our officers have the training and tools to respond to these situations. The traveller was arrested and charged by RCMP. For more information please contact the RCMP.

On Detentions - General:

- Making a refugee claim is not a reason for detention. Detention is designed to be a short-term solution and our numbers fluctuate daily. The regional CBSA office can provide overall detention statistics on a monthly basis. Contact our media relations team for further information or to request statistics.
- For your further background, detention is a last resort and officers must always consider alternatives.
- The CBSA has the authority to detain a foreign national, in accordance with the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act, for the following reasons:
 - The person is unlikely to appear for removal or for a proceeding;
 - The person is a danger to the public;
 - To confirm/establish identity.
- All detentions are reviewed after 48hrs, 7 days, and then every 30 days by the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB).
- While the CBSA will present evidence in support of detention, the IRB ultimately decides whether detention continues or if an individual should be released and whether or not terms and conditions should be applied.
- For more information on detention, please visit the CBSA website sections on Arrests, detentions and removals and Detentions.

For questions about asylum seeker numbers:

The number of asylum claims in Canada are updated monthly on Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada's (IRCC) website. The website has numbers from January to March 2017. For questions or numbers outside of these dates, please contact our regional communications team.

For questions about interceptions between ports of entry, please contact the RCMP as they are responsible for the enforcing the law between ports of entry.

The trailer is simply an extension of our waiting area with chairs and it is heated.

- Having the trailer on site at Emerson is the best solution from an operational perspective to facilitate efficient processing of claimants.
- While claimants are in processing, the trailer is an extension of our lobby area to accommodate larger groups who are awaiting the administrative part of their processing to be completed.
- There is a security presence on site when the trailer is in use.

- Water, blankets and other supplies are being provided to claimants when needed. CBSA is also providing medical attention to those individuals who need it.

On CIU comments re asylum seekers and criminality.

- What the CBSA can tell you is that in Manitoba, from March 20 to April 16, 2017, of 135 persons processed by the CBSA at the Emerson port of entry seeking to make a refugee claim, the CBSA detained three (3) individuals it determined to be a danger to the public.
- CBSA officers are trained to assess all risks associated with people and goods attempting to enter Canada to ensure the country's safety and security.
- When a CBSA officer has reasonable grounds to believe the person is a danger to the public, they are a flight risk or their identity is in question a detention order may be issued.
- The CBSA, working with its Government of Canada and international security partners, is responding to the increase in asylum seekers in a sound and measured way, to ensure the safety and security of Canada's border.
- On any given day, the CBSA can experience a change in what and who it sees at the border. CBSA's border services officers are highly-trained and able to respond to this reality through the application of rigorous screening and standard processes to keep Canada safe.

On recent assault of a CBSA officer

- I can confirm that a CBSA officer was assaulted by a traveller resisting arrest. The officer sustained minor injury but did not require further medical attention. Our officers have the training and tools to respond to these situations. The traveller was arrested and charged by RCMP. For more information please contact the RCMP.

On Detentions - General:

- Making a refugee claim is not a reason for detention. Detention is designed to be a short-term solution and our numbers fluctuate daily. The regional CBSA office can provide overall detention statistics on a monthly basis. Contact our media relations team for further information or to request statistics.
- For your further background, detention is a last resort and officers must always consider alternatives.
- The CBSA has the authority to detain a foreign national, in accordance with the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act, for the following reasons:
 - The person is unlikely to appear for removal or for a proceeding;

- The person is a danger to the public;
- To confirm/establish identity.
- All detentions are reviewed after 48hrs, 7 days, and then every 30 days by the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB).
- While the CBSA will present evidence in support of detention, the IRB ultimately decides whether detention continues or if an individual should be released and whether or not terms and conditions should be applied.
- For more information on detention, please visit the CBSA website sections on Arrests, detentions and removals and Detentions.

For questions about asylum seeker numbers:

The number of asylum claims in Canada are updated monthly on Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada's (IRCC) website. The website has numbers from January to March 2017. For questions or numbers outside of these dates, please contact our regional communications team.

For questions about interceptions between ports of entry, please contact the RCMP as they are responsible for the enforcing the law between ports of entry.

Attachments: Ministerial Statement on the Toronto Star's "Caged by Canada" feature v2....docx

The last QP on the subject was in February and noted in the background:

Claiming asylum is not in itself a motive for detention. The CBSA must consider all reasonable alternatives before making the decision to detain an individual. CBSA officers can detain a foreign national if they have reasonable grounds to believe the person is:

- unlikely to appear for an immigration proceeding (e.g., examination, hearing, removal);
- a danger to the public;
- unable to satisfy the officer of their identity.

Furthermore, the CBSA detains a small percentage of refugee claimants. Unless a refugee claimant is detained under IRPA, he/she may live anywhere in Canada.

The Minister's statement (attached) to the TStar noted:

Canada must have a much improved immigration detention system—one which effectively limits the use of detention to those difficult cases where there are serious concerns about the individual being unidentified, a flight risk or a danger to the public. We need to minimize the use of provincial jails and try to avoid, as much as humanly possible, the holding of children in detention.

Without speaking to the private details of particular cases, but as the Federal Court has observed, often individuals who end up in prolonged detention have been given many chances, but failed to cooperate with those who protect the integrity of our immigration system. These detainees may have failed to appear when required, deceived officers, frustrated attempts to ascertain their identity and obtain travel documents, or re-offended while not in detention. When faced with someone who has a long criminal history or who poses a genuine risk to the safety of the public, an alternative to detention may not be possible. Decisions about an individual remaining in detention are made by the quasi-judicial Immigration and Refugee Board, not CBSA.

If I am not mistaken, QP notes etc say detention is a last resort and, thus, minister may have said same (Joey: do you recall QP note language and/or min quotes?)

I have included a full set of lines on detentions and the Framework further below, not that we would use all. That said, the point of reaching out to the CBC is more to address the inaccurate comment that BSOs are under greater scrutiny... I don't know how much we want to get into the detentions aspect as it starts a whole other conversation. We could add these few bullets to what I suggested earlier.

- Immigration detention is not punitive but exercised to ensure the integrity of the immigration system and to ensure public safety. Detention is a last resort and officers must always consider alternatives.
- A CBSA officer's decision to detain a person under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act is subject to a review by the Immigration and Refugee Board (IRB), an independent quasi-judicial tribunal. Detainees must appear before the IRB within the first 48 hours of being detained. At a detention review, the IRB may release the person or identify conditions for release or determine that detention should continue. If the IRB determines that detention should be continued, the individual must appear in the next seven (7) days and every 30 days thereafter.
- Detention reviews before the IRB Immigration Division are generally open to the public. This is not the case if reviews concern refugee protection claimants or if the IRB determines that any of the following applies:
 - Danger to a person's life;
 - Fairness of the detention review could be jeopardized; or
 - Information involving national security might be disclosed.
- The Agency strives to treat all people with the utmost respect and dignity in keeping with its core values of respect and fairness.

Add to earlier suggested text to send to CBC:

Nothing has changed in CBSA's standard screening processes, nor is there any change in oversight or "scrutiny" of our officers. The CBSA has full confidence in the great work that its border services officers carry out on a daily basis to keep the country safe and secure. CBSA officers are highly-trained to respond to different people or goods they process when they arrive at the Canadian border. As the story pointed out, there are three reasons a CBSA officer issues a detention order: when a CBSA officer has reasonable grounds to believe the person is a danger to the public, they are a flight risk or their identity is in question.

Media lines on detentions:

- The CBSA works to ensure that it is exercising responsibility for detentions to the highest possible standards, with physical and mental health and well-being of detainees as well as the safety and security of Canadians as the primary considerations.
- Officers always consider alternatives to detention.
- To support officers working in Immigration Holding Centres, at POEs and in inland enforcement, the CBSA has developed and implemented training on mental health issues and suicide prevention.
- The new National Immigration Detention Framework will expand partnerships, enhance alternatives to detention and include key investments in federal detention infrastructure.
- The CBSA works to ensure that it is exercising responsibility for detentions to the highest possible standards, with the physical and mental health and well-being of detainees as well as the safety and security of Canadians as primary considerations.
- CBSA officers detain foreign nationals and permanent residents when there are reasonable grounds to believe the person is inadmissible to Canada and is:
 - a danger to the public;
 - unlikely to appear (flight risk) for immigration processes; or
 - unable to satisfy the officer of their identity (foreign nationals only).
- In provinces where there are no IHCs and/or the person presents a higher risk profile or is a public security risk, the CBSA relies on the use of provincial facilities.
- On average, there are 450 to 500 individuals detained under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act (IRPA) at any given time.
- In 2015-2016, there were 6,596 detentions. These make up less than 0.02% of foreign travellers to Canada per year.
- Immigration detention is not punitive but exercised to ensure the integrity of the immigration system and to ensure public safety. Detention is a last resort and officers must always consider alternatives.
- Alternatives to detention may include release on reporting conditions, including performance bond; cash deposit; establishment of a bondsperson; or acceptance into a community supervision program (exclusive to the Greater Toronto Area region at this time).
- A CBSA officer's decision to detain a person under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act is subject to a review by the Immigration and Refugee Board (IRB), an independent quasi-judicial tribunal. Detainees must appear before the IRB within the first 48 hours of being detained. At a detention review, the IRB may release the person or identify conditions for release or determine that detention should continue. If the IRB determines that detention should be continued, the individual must appear in the next seven (7) days and every 30 days thereafter.

 - Danger to a person's life;
 - Fairness of the detention review could be jeopardized; or
 - Information involving national security might be disclosed.
- The Agency strives to treat all people with the utmost respect and dignity in keeping with its core values of respect and fairness.

National Immigration Detention Framework

- The new National Immigration Detention Framework (announced in August 2016) launched the beginning of a transformation agenda to create a better, fairer immigration detention system.
- The Framework includes up to $138 million to improve immigration detention infrastructure, provide better mental and medical health services at CBSA IHCs, expand partnerships and alternatives to detention, and reduce the number of minors in detention.
- These key investments will significantly improve conditions at the CBSA IHCs, better align with international and domestic standards for immigration detention and reduce the reliance on provincial facilities.
- By implementing this Framework, the CBSA is taking concrete action to address ongoing challenges in immigration detention related to infrastructure, policy, operational procedures and detainee health and welfare, including those with special needs.
- The CBSA is fully engaged and committed to exercising its responsibility for detentions to the highest possible standards, with physical and mental health and well-being of detainees, as well as the safety and security of Canadians as the primary considerations.
- The Government of Canada is committed to transparency and openness and will continue to consult with stakeholders and provide updates on the progress of the National Immigration Detention Framework.

Statistics

- Year over year, the number of detentions has gone down despite the increase in number of foreign nationals entering Canada. Over the last five years, the number of detentions has dropped by 27%.
- In 2015-2016, the overall average length of detention fell slightly (nearly 6%) over the previous year, when the average length of detention peaked.
- Over the last two fiscal years (2014-2015 and 2015-2016), there has been a 14% decrease in the number of minors held in a facility for immigration-related reasons.
- If the current trend continues to fiscal year-end, a further decrease in the number of minors held in a facility for immigration-related reasons is expected.

- The average length of time a minor spends in a facility has also seen a decrease. Based on the numbers for the first nine months of this fiscal year, there should be a further decrease by fiscal year end.

Indeed. These are our lines on that :

- Making a refugee claim is not a reason for detention, nor is ineligibility to make an asylum claim.
- Detention is a last resort and officers must always consider alternatives.
- When a CBSA officer has reasonable grounds to believe the person is a danger to the public, they are a flight risk or their identity is in question a detention order may be issued.

3 out of 135 recent asylum seekers deemed danger to the public, detained in Manitoba

CBC News

2017-04-19, 13:54 ET

Over a recent one-month stretch, three people intercepted by RCMP while crossing into Canada on foot near Emerson, Man., were detained because they were found to be a danger to the public, Canada Border Services Agency officials say.

Between March 20 and April 16, 135 asylum seekers were found illegally crossing the border near the small Manitoba town.

Details released Wednesday show the number of asylum seekers crossing the border into the province is climbing.

In March, 170 people were intercepted crossing into Manitoba — up from 19 in January and 142 in February, according to Citizenship and Immigration Canada.

The union representing border patrol officers raised concerns about public safety last week, saying nearly half of the asylum seekers entering near Emerson in the last few weeks have some criminality in their backgrounds.

Data provided by the Canada Border Services Agency doesn't include numbers about asylum seekers with criminal backgrounds who were not detained. The CBSA does not keep statistics on asylum seekers with records who have not been detained.

Jean-Pierre Fortin, national president of the Customs and Immigration Union, said border officers have been under increased scrutiny in recent months and will only detain an asylum seeker "as a last resort."

One of the recent detainees allegedly assaulted a female officer on April 8.

Ahmed Aden Ali, who came to Canada via Minneapolis, was charged with two counts of uttering threats, mischief over $5,000 and assaulting a police officer.

People can only be detained at the border for three reasons: They're a danger to the public, they're unlikely to appear for a removal hearing or their identity can't be determined.

Border services officials said they didn't know whether the three people who were recently detained are still in custody. They may have been released by the Immigration Refugee Board on a promise to appear before the board for a removal hearing at a later date.

Someone can be deemed "criminally inadmissible" to apply for refugee status in Canada but may still be released into the country on a promise to appear at a future removal hearing.

FYI – We just received updated stats from PRU for a slightly longer period of time.... that tell a better story – 3 of 135, instead of 3 of 105 intercepted were deemed a danger to the public. The line is updated below.

New line:

The numbers provided by the CIU late last week are inaccurate. What the CBSA can tell you is that in Manitoba, from March 20 to April 16, 2017, the RCMP intercepted 135 people crossing illegally into Canada. Of those, the CBSA detained three (3) individuals it determined to be a danger to the public.

The lines were EVP approved, so sending these lines to PCO Comms and MinO now.

Subject: Re: Media lines - asylum seekers

Here you go. More than you likely need, but just in case.

CBSA's role and mandate:

The Canada Border Services Agency (CBSA) is responsible for enforcement at designated ports of entry in Canada. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP) is responsible for enforcing the law between ports of entry. Border security and integrity is a shared mandate between the CBSA and the RCMP.

On security screening of claimants:

When the RCMP intercepts a person entering Canada illegally, the person will be taken to a CBSA location. All persons brought to the CBSA by RCMP are screened and subject to a risk assessment. No one leaves the CBSA's premises until processing is complete.

- CBSA's screening involves international and domestic database queries and interviews.
- Officers confirm identity through scanning travel documents and matching fingerprints to those already on file with United States agencies.
- Officers conduct criminal record checks using law enforcement (domestic and US) databases.
- Officers determine the claimant's status in other countries, including the United States.
- Officers research any information available on the claimant's history, family connections, and ties to Canada. Officers will ask who they are, where they came from, what their status is in the U.S., if they are facing a removal order in the U.S., etc.
- Officers examine any luggage or belongings in the claimant's possession at the time of entry, and retrieve identity documents.

On determining eligibility of refugee claimants and processing claimants:

If the person makes a refugee claim, the role of the CBSA is to determine the eligibility of the claim under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act and the Canada-U.S. Safe Third Country Agreement. A claim may not be eligible for referral to the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB) for various reasons, such as:

- The claimant is not admissible to Canada on security grounds, or because of criminal activity or human rights violations.
- The claimant made a previous refugee claim that was rejected by the IRB.
- The Canada-U.S. Safe Third Country Agreement applies, which states that refugee claimants are required to request refugee protection in the first safe country they arrive in, unless they qualify for an exception to the Agreement.
- If the officer determines that the person is eligible to make a claim, the claim is deferred inland for further CBSA processing before moving onward to the IRB. If the claim is deemed ineligible, the person may be removed.
- The IRB ultimately determines whether or not the person is granted refugee status. The CBSA's role is to assess eligibility at the port of entry. The CBSA may also intervene in a claim and appear at the hearing before the IRB.
- When processing claimants, CBSA officers also contact Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada to advise of the claims for resettlement purposes.
- Winnipeg is not always the claimant's final destination in Canada. If the claimant is reuniting with family in other parts of the country, their file is forwarded to the nearest CBSA/IRB office for final determination.
- If a claimant has previous criminality, their claim is assessed on a case-by-case basis. The claimant may be detained pending the results of their claim.
- The CBSA is well-positioned and experienced in processing high volumes of travellers. We continuously monitor our operations and adjust as required.
- The Emerson border crossing has received refugee claimants for many years. Officers are experienced and familiar with the ins and outs of effectively and efficiently processing claimants.

- Daily staffing levels can be adjusted quickly to a sudden influx of refugee claimants, to ensure that regular traveller and commercial traffic flow is not disrupted.

Appendix A

Accommodations at the Emerson port of entry:

The trailer is simply an extension of our waiting area with chairs and it is heated.

- Having the trailer on site at Emerson is the best solution from an operational perspective to facilitate efficient processing of claimants.
- While claimants are in processing, the trailer is an extension of our lobby area to accommodate larger groups who are awaiting the administrative part of their processing to be completed.
- There is a security presence on site when the trailer is in use.
- Water, blankets and other supplies are being provided to claimants when needed. CBSA is also providing medical attention to those individuals who need it.

On CIU comments re asylum seekers and criminality.

- What the CBSA can tell you is that in Manitoba, from March 20 to April 16, 2017, of 135 persons processed by the CBSA at the Emerson port of entry seeking to make a refugee claim, the CBSA detained three (3) individuals it determined to be a danger to the public.
- CBSA officers are trained to assess all risks associated with people and goods attempting to enter Canada to ensure the country's safety and security.
- When a CBSA officer has reasonable grounds to believe the person is a danger to the public, they are a flight risk or their identity is in question a detention order may be issued.
- The CBSA, working with its Government of Canada and international security partners, is responding to the increase in asylum seekers in a sound and measured way, to ensure the safety and security of Canada's border.
- On any given day, the CBSA can experience a change in what and who it sees at the border. CBSA's border services officers are highly-trained and able to respond to this reality through the application of rigorous screening and standard processes to keep Canada safe.

On Detentions - General:

- Making a refugee claim is not a reason for detention. Detention is designed to be a short-term solution and our numbers fluctuate daily. The regional CBSA office can provide overall detention statistics on a monthly basis. Contact our media relations team for further information or to request statistics.
- For your further background, detention is a last resort and officers must always consider alternatives.
- The CBSA has the authority to detain a foreign national, in accordance with the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act, for the following reasons:
 - The person is unlikely to appear for removal or for a proceeding;
 - The person is a danger to the public;
 - To confirm/establish identity.
- All detentions are reviewed after 48hrs, 7 days, and then every 30 days by the Immigration and Refugee Board of Canada (IRB).
- While the CBSA will present evidence in support of detention, the IRB ultimately decides whether detention continues or if an individual should be released and whether or not terms and conditions should be applied.
- For more information on detention, please visit the CBSA website sections on Arrests, detentions and removals and Detentions.

For questions about asylum seeker numbers:

The number of asylum claims in Canada are updated monthly on Immigration, Refugees and Citizenship Canada's (IRCC) website. The website has numbers from January to March 2017. For questions or numbers outside of these dates, please contact our regional communications team.

For questions about interceptions between ports of entry, please contact the RCMP as they are responsible for the enforcing the law between ports of entry.

Doesn't necessarily have to have numbers - that was just one line I found - looking for more general approved statements that we have used with regards to asylum seekers and serious crim.

That's for crossing in MB not Emerson. There are similar stats for other regions and nationally.

We are still waiting to get the actual crim stats from Prog and Ops. Do you updates on that from Paulette?

Subject: Media lines - asylum seekers

Good afternoon,

Looking for the latest approved media lines on serious crim in asylum seekers.

3 out of 135 asylum seekers have been detained as a result of being a danger to the public. This data is for illegal crossings at emerson, between March 20 and April 16, 2017.

Are there any other lines available/ approved on this topic?

Looking for answers by tonight if possible, but by 9 am at the latest as the final products are due at 1130 tomorrow for a deputy/ ministers meeting.

Thank you,

Melissa

0050 I was standing at the front counter with BSO Driedger and BSO LaFramais when we heard the cell door slam and went running to the detention cell.
and BSO
LaFramais were there with the cell door closed and the subject was kicking the door and yelling through the window. He was making threats, saying
"Come in here", taunting and yelling while repeatedly kicking and slamming on the cell door.

0054 All of a sudden, water started hitting the cell door and streaming from underneath it and the fire alarm was activated. He could not be seen through the cell door so I went to the cameras to get a visual on the subject. He could be seen standing on the cell bench in the corner. I played back the video and observed that after he had done whatever caused the fire alarm to go off, he had climbed on to the bench 77

Z and continued to stand there.
0105 Supt hafrenais asked me to contact the Public Works after hours number to have DPW dispatched to deal with the Fire alarm and water.
I continued to observe the subject on the cameras.

0120 RCMP arrived at the port.

0130 RCMP removed the subject from the cell and brought out to the RCMP's vehicles.
